

Waiting for the Chally has cost me!!

Written by Administrator

Tuesday, 06 April 2010 15:32 - Last Updated Tuesday, 06 April 2010 20:09

I ordered a 2010 Dodge Challenger SRT8 6 Speed on Feb 20 2010. I ordered a new one as I could not find one locally without a sunroof. Besides, I did not want an abused dealer vehicle. The normal order process takes 8 weeks giving me plenty of time to check out possible upgrades. Well this was a mistake as I could not hold myself back. I have not received the car yet but I now have the following in my possession:

MBRP Cat Back Exhaust

K&N CAI

Eibach Sportline System plus (Lowering springs, shocks and sway-bars)

Predator Tuner

Billet Tech goodies (Catch can and some bling)

Lockpick

License plate backup camera

Car Cover

The car is supposed to arrive April 14th. I wonder how long I can hold out before installing some of this stuff. This will probably hold me off for a while (Ya right). I will probably be purchasing these items in the future.

Hurst short throw shifter

Wheels of course

Ported Heads, Intake, and TB and a CAM

I would like to get up to 500HP, from the base 425HP, and I am pretty sure the above can get me there. I think this car is going to cost me dearly.

Waiting for the Chally has cost me!!

Written by Administrator

Tuesday, 06 April 2010 15:32 - Last Updated Tuesday, 06 April 2010 20:09
